Though Gertrude Hoffmann to known primarily as a dancer, her act at the Palage yesterday was in reality an exposition of the heights to which jazz can ascend when there's a lot of muscle behind it. As the windup of her head- to line turn Miss Hoffmann appeared on a raised platform, similar to that used to hang ex-Kaisers, and slammed drums, strummed a ukelele, annoyed a violin, waggled a cowbell, wallound chimes waggied a cowbell, walloped chimes, hooted on a steum calllope, ground a hand organ, shook sleighbells and the shimmy, and in a general way conducted herself like a high salaried rivting artist s part of her performance was on the programme "A Trip to Island," but Miss Hoffmann George White Collects Dancers couldn't fool the wise Palace audience. They knew it was jazz in disguise. Hence the loud acclaim.

One came away from Miss Hoffmann's act—at its finish, of course—with the confirmed opinion that Eddle Foy is the Grand Old Man of the American nusical shows, there were no characters stage, to whom a lot of variety per-named on the programme of "The Scan-formers almost owe the breath of their tals of 1919," at the Liberty Theatre existence. When a future historian shall write the epic of modern vaudeville no doubt he will give a very large place to Mr. Foy, not only for what he is himself, but for providing material with which many vaudevillians round their acts agreeably by imitating him. Miss Hoffmann imitated him, assuming the Foy wig, crooked smile, hourse gurgle and wabble, and of course rehausted when it came to naming his ceived the customary Foy applause.

Other minicries which won a hand characters. After all, it is what the for her were those of Fanny Brice, Ann

Pennington, Bessie McCoy and Hert Willlams, a large part of the audience's favor being evoked by the fact that Miss Hoffmann did her changes in a dressing room right on the stage, which revealed that she wriggles her feet when she putting on — well, whatever they put on to keep cool in hot weather. #### MLLE. CAUBET SINGS WITH GREAT CHARM

Sarah Bernhardt's Godchild on the Century Roof.

Mile. Suranne Caubet, with all the outhful charm which justified Sarah Bernhardt in adopting her as a god child, made her initial appearance at the Morris Gest "Midnight Whirl" on the Century Roof last night. Mile. Caubet, who is the daughter of a well known French actor, revealed all the ommand of a performer's art, which she has gained since she started her tage career at the age of $.

She sang in a pleasant soprane voice "Daddy," which was something of a surprise to the audience, since it was done in capably enunciated English. Then, as a still more entertaining nov-elty, she ran through "Down on the Farm," a decidedly American hit, trans-lated into Prench. Her performance lated into Prench. Her performance follows the best traditions of the French stage and was appreciated by the on-lookers. Marcel Knecht and other memended the show in honor of their coun-

LADY DIANA WED TO LIEUT. DUFF COOPER

Daughter of Duke of Rutland Bride of Nephew of Late Duke of Fife.

Special Cable Despatch to Tun Sun. Copyright, 1919; all rights reserved. LONDON, June 2.-Amid crowds and cenes rivalling those attending the wedding of Princess Patricia Lady Diana Manners, who for years has been England's most discussed society woman was married to-day to Lieut. Duff Cooper of the Grenadier Guards, son of Sir Alfred and Lady Agnes Cooper, the ceremony being performed at 2:30 o'clock in St. Margaret's Chapel, West-

The streets surrounding the chape were solidly packed, the crowds being composed mostly of women who were gown and of the members of royalty who sttended. Through lanes that were held open by the police the bride arrived shortly before 2 o'clock, wearing a anxious to get a glimpse of the bride's golden trousseau which had been made at home, thus setting a new fashion. The wedding gown was made of ra-diant gold tissues velled with lace, with a train composed of lace from the wed-ding vells of her grandmother, the Duke of Rutland's mother and the Duchess's mother. The bride was attended by Lady Caroline Paget. The royal family was represented by Downger Queen Al-exandra. After the high church cere-mony the bride and bridegroom left the church, to the cheers of a vast throng. The popularity of Lady Diana dates from the time before her debut, and the society papers have been filled with acounts of her activities since then, and particularly during the war. She is 27 years old the youngest daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Rutland. Lieut Duff Cooper, who is 29, is a nephew of the late Duke of Fife and a cousin of Princess Arthur of Connaught. He won the D. S. O. in France,

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the Duke of Rutland's Arlington street house, where there was a recep tion and an exhibition of wedding gifts, including a handsome brooch from the King and Queen. Among the gifts were any valuable heirlooms.

It is reported that Lady Diana intends to open a house in Gower street, just off Bloomsbury, where pre-war American tourists once flocked in great numbers. The honeymoon is to be spent at Sir Philip Sassoon's house near Polkestone and later the couple will go to Paris. This wedding undoubtedly surpassed in beauty and comments any that has taken place since the war.

Miss Sadie Shevell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shevell, of 720 Riverside Drive, was married to Samuel S. Tenenbaum of this city last evening at the Hotel Biltmore by the Rev. Dr. mann. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Henry S. Tennenbaum and Miss Ethel Tennenbaum, sister of the o'clock to-day. Mr. Klein's death on Miss Ethel Tennenbaum, sister of the Sunday resulted after a long period of bridgeroom. Nat Tennenbaum acted as ill health following his return from his brother's best man. Immediately London, where he suffered from shell after the marriage ceremony there was

45,000 Miles from One Tire ona5-ton Truck

When a solid tire hangs up such a record on a 5-ton truck, carrying daily from 5,000 to 10,000 pound loads, under any and all conditions, such an achievement excites alike amazement and envy.

This, is exactly what a Goodrich De Luxe Truck Tire did on the 5-ton truck of Baer Brothers, 438-448 West 37th St., New York.

And the old warrior still comes up smilingshying at the retirement it deserves.

De Luxe Tires can do these things because they have the material built in them-the best a half century of rubber science can produce.
